THE PUTNEY COLUMN

New Schoolhouse Dedicated with Appropriate Ceremonies

Addresses by Mrs. James P. Elmer, Edgar Burr Smith and Mason S. Stone, Besides Pactors of Local Churches.

services bentting the occasion the new school building at the top of kimball hill was dedicated formally ruesday afternoon, the event marking listingt advance in the educational life A large audience was prescont. deep interest was manifested, and much intellectual profit was realized. Many of the townspeople present had never inspected the new building, and they were surprised at the completeness and general excellence of the structure. Those in charge of the arrangements for the dedication, in which Mrs. J. F. Washburn handled the laboring oar, are entitled to feel satisfied with the result of their labors. It was an eminently fitting thing to have the building dedicated in the way that it was way that it was.

The program was given in the east bom on the second floor, the first speaker being Rev. J. D. King, pastor of the Con-gregational church. Mr. King spoke of the infinitely greater beauty of the sun-rise than of the sunset, carrying the illus-tration into the lives of people and point-ing out that the great hope of the world lies in the children. "It is only as we give the land good schools," he said, "that we can have real particitie citizens."

we can have real pairiotic citizens."
Rev. A. S. Buzzell, pastor of the Baptist church, followed Mr. King. He said that educators were coming to learn that environment had something to do with progress and advancement. The environments surrounding the pupils of Putney in the coming days will constitute a material factor in their success. Mr. Buzzell admired the beautiful structure, but he looked beyond it and saw characters moulded as symmetrical as the building.
It was a pleasure to all to have present
Mrs. James P. Elmer, a native of this town and for 30 years an instructor in the Brattleboro high school. Mrs. Elmer said she took more than a passing interest in the welfare of the citizens of Putney and was proud that they were not content with the old order of things. The new school is a monument to much earnest hard work and also stands for sacrifice on the part of some. She urged the importance of keeping open the high-ways of education, and suggested that in present instance there would come adthe present instance there would come added needs, among them a better town library and a school library, characterizing these needs as the hunger which is a sign of health. Mrs. Elmer regretted that the opening of the new building probably would mean a loss to the Brattleboro school, saying in substance: "We in Brattleboro have been privileged to know the beautiful the number of the property are. of what kind the pupils in Putney are. As exemplified by them we congratulate you upon the character of the work done

Smith, principal of the Brattleboro high school, who spoke on "Educational Progress." He referred with a good deal of reverence to the passing of the "little red reverence to the passing of the "little red schoolhouse," from which there have gone out boys and girls to all parts of the country, and mentioned the great advance of some of the leading educational institutions of the country, not only in the matter of attendance, but also in the quality of education. This advance in quality is not limited to the higher institutions but reaches down to the preparatutions, but reaches down to the prepara-tory schools, as shown by the fact that schools in Vermont are accorded ceriffcate privileges, which means that their graduates are admitted to many of the leading schools without examination. Mr.

he, "and it is well to give them that environment that is pleasant and cheerful."
Mr. Stone said that the poorest economy was to engage cheap and inefficient teachers. Teachers should have a personality which will enthuse children to aspirations to the noblest things in life. The need of not more funds but better application of funds was brought out. The text books now in use tend to allenate boys from the farms. "Nature is The text books now in use tend to allenate boys from the farms. "Nature is just and true," said Mr. Stone, "and nature training would make the boys and girls just and true as nature. We are making a piea, feeble though it may be, that the home and farm and daily life of the child be more closely related to the school life."

The dedicatory prayer was offered by flev. Emanuel C. Chariton, pastor of the Methodist church, and was as follows; "Almighty God. Our Heavenly Father, we humbly recognize our dependence upon Thee. As our fathers led forth by we humbly recognize our dependence upon Thee. As our fathers led forth by Thy hand trusted in Thee, who art the ever living fountain and source of all intelligence, so we Thy servants, desiring for ourselves, and for our children, and for our children, and for our children, and for our intellectual faculties, and of the institutions established, erected, and bequeathed to us by our honored sires, for our mental development, here dedicate to Thee, as the fruit of our toll and sacrifice, this building as a school, in which we pray that profitable instruction may be given, and the principles of sound wisdom be imparted as ornaments of grace and crowns of beauty. Accept it and us. Watch over it, abide in it. And may thy richest blessings crown our efforts in the intellectual strength and moral beauty of our children. In Jesus's name. Amen."

name. Amen."
The musical numbers, with which the The musical numbers, with wind saddresses were intersperced, were rendered with good judgment and in a way that pleased the audience. There were four solos by W. I. Martin of Grafton, N. H., and two duets by Miss Jennie E. Pierce and Mrs. Herbert L. Bailey of this fown the accompaniments being played town, the accompaniments being played town, the accompaniments being played ty Mrs. Henry Coe. The following by Rev. Thomas Cull is from the last issue of the Watchman: "Martha Root was born Feb. 15, 1841, in leading schools without examination. Mr. Smith said that if there was one thing to which he would urge this or any other town to give with liberal hand it was the institution of the schools.

State Superintendent of Education Mason S. Stone of Montpeller was the last speaker. He said that the progressiveness of a town was indicated by the condition of its public buildings, and that the building was a menument and a credit to Putney. "This building is going to bring out the best qualities of the boys and girls who attend here," said he, "and it is well to give them that environment that is pleasant and cheerful." Pulaski, N. Y., died March 14 in West Haven, Vt. She was converted at 14, and educated in the Pulaski academy the people that at the funeral the whole community seemed to feel her death as the loss of a personal friend. Many brought flowers and other tokens of love and affection, and there were expressions of sorrow on all sides. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Thomas Cull of Cambridge, N. Y., and Rev. E. A. Foote of Fair Haven, Vt., assisted by neighboring pastors. Bro, Douglas and his two daughters have the sympathy of all who know them."

NIGHT OR DAY

With Irritating Skin Humor-Whole Body Affected - Scalp Itched All the Time and Hair Began to Fall Out-Wonderful Result From

APPLICATION OF CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I am never without Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment since I tried them last summer. About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies that were recommended for akin humors; but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body; and I kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured, and my hair stopped falling out, but I continue to use the Cuticura on my scalp. It keeps all dandruff out and scalp is always clean. I always use Cuticura Ointment on my face after shaving, and have found nothing to equal it. I will never be without it." D.E. Blankenship,

There is a big difference between the DE LAVAL and other Cream Separators, notwithstanding much the same claims are made for all "on paper," and some of the biggest claims for the poorest and trashiest machines. DE LAVAL machines skim cleanest, have the biggest capacities, do the best work under every-day use conditions, produce the best cream and make the best butter, so that there is easily a difference of from $50 to $150 per year between the benefits and savings of a DE LAVAL machine and a poor one. Then DE LAVAL machines are made up of much the best material and workmanship and last at least 20 years, with small

DE LAVAL machines prove their own superiority. There are agents in every locality whose business it is to supply machines in this way and who are glad of the opportunity to do so. They them and start the user right, which means a great deal in the profitable and satisfacory use of a separator.

While there is an ample discount for cash, if the user can't conveniently buy in that way he can do so on such liberal terms that the machine actually pays for itself by its own savings.

There is no reason why every farmer having cream to separate ahould not buy a separator this year, and there is surely over-whelming reason why it should be a DE LAVAL.

A new DE LAVAL catalogue to be had for the asking will interest everyone thinking of a separator.

Why do so many people send their work to the Brattleboro Steam Laundry? It is because they get any kind of work they are after. We can give your shirts and collars either a gloss or domestic finish, as you desire. Brattleboro Steam Laundry, Sparks Bros., Proprietors.

To Flat Street. Telephone 44-5.

Free to Farmers. To any farmer who will write us, men-tioning this paper, we will send free, post-paid, several formulas for making a first-class fertilizer at home, togother with the cost of the ingredients, directions for mixing, etc.

The Vermont Experiment Station in its bulletin No. 116 has the following to say with reference to the value of home mixed fertilizers as compared with the ordinary commercial brands: "On every account, however, financial, educational, agricultural, it is better to buy the oruda.

Every up-to-date farmer should be in-terested in the subject of home-mixed fertilizers and we are in position to help them. Address.
